Overview

What is a containerized energy storage system?

A Containerized Energy-Storage System, or CESS, is an innovative energy storage solution packaged within a modular, transportable container. It serves as a rechargeable battery system capable of storing large amounts of energy generated from renewable sources like wind or solar power, as well as from the grid during low-demand periods.

What is a containerised energy storage system (BESS)?

They can be configured to match the required power and capacity requirements of client's application. Our containerised energy storage system (BESS) is the perfect solution for large-scale energy storage projects. The energy storage containers can be used in the integration of various storage technologies and for different purposes.

Can I add more container units to my energy storage system?

Each container unit is a self-contained energy storage system, but they can be combined to increase capacity. This means that as your energy demands grow, you can incrementally expand your CESS by adding more container units, offering a scalable solution that grows with your needs.
